

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

January 15, 2008

MEDIA CONTACT:

Tamiko Crowe-Walker

walkerhousepr@hotmail.com

(313) 629-6338

New book Waking Up In Corporate America tells the story of how a former executive discovered seven secrets that opened his eyes before it was too late.

(Columbus, Ohio)--In corporate America many people succeed at making money or climbing various ladders of success. However, most find themselves wondering whether they've missed something. In his new book, Waking Up In Corporate America: The Seven Secrets That Opened My Eyes, Eric Pennington chronicles how seven secrets virtually saved him from a life often lived, but even more so regretted. Eric's experiences throughout a 15 year career in corporate America are the back-drop for a concise volume published by Advantage Media Group.

In a time when many corporate executives find it convenient to ignore the writing on the wall, Eric discovered that nothing was as it seemed in corporate America. He found himself becoming more successful while his destiny moved farther and farther away. His family suffered, his health languished, while he was one of the most successful executives in his peer group.

With the wind of globalization, corporate restructuring and ever growing demand for skilled workers blowing around the corporate landscape, Waking Up In Corporate America gives needed advice on how to be more effective without losing one's soul. The author's real-life experiences give readers a perspective from someone who "lived to tell." The book tackles straight on the issues most important to those working in corporate America.

Whether a secret on Not Chasing Success or Living a Life of Influence, the reader finds positive light in a dark tunnel that often is corporate America. Waking Up In Corporate America will inspire and challenge the reader to make a course correction. And as Eric writes, "we must find a way to develop authenticity and bury insincerity." Is it possible that a new movement has begun?

About Eric Pennington:

Eric Pennington is the Founder and Chief Idea Spreader of Epic Living, LLC, a leadership development organization serving the needs of individuals and the organizations they work for. He possesses over twenty years of leadership and management experience within varied corporate and non-profit organizations. He is also a member of the National Speakers Association and Leader to Leader Institute.

About Advantage Media Group:

Advantage Media Group is a pioneer of author-centric publishing. Advantage provides authors a full range of services and expertise including publishing, marketing, product development, digital content management, and managed services to aid in the development of their brands. Advantage is headquartered in Charleston, South Carolina.

For more information visit www.wakingupincorporateamerica.com.